THE APPRENTICESHIP NETWORK

Australian Apprenticeship Network Provider (AASN)

BUSY At Work is contracted by the Australian Government (DEWR) as a Network Provider. We are your first point of contact to provide information and advice to support employers, apprentices and trainees to better navigate the apprenticeship/traineeship system.

Supervising Registered Training Organisation

A SRTO delivers the training component of an apprenticeship or traineeship and is responsible for assessing the skills and competence of the apprentice or trainee as they progress. A SRTO may also be called the registered training organisation (RTO), training organisation or college.

School

School-based apprenticeships and traineeships (SATs) allow high school students, generally in Years 10, 11 or 12, to work for an employer and train towards a recognised qualification, while completing their secondary schooling. The school will be notified prior to the sign-up occurring to gain support and approval to proceed.

Department of Youth Justice, Employment, Small Business and / Training (State)

The Department of Youth Justice, Employment, Small Business and Training regulates apprenticeships and traineeships in Qld and facilitates access and participation in vocational education and training pathways.

Employer

An employer provides paid employment and training to assist an individual to complete an apprenticeship or traineeship under the guidance of a training organisation.

AUSTRALIAN APPRENTICE

An apprentice or trainee is anyone employed under a training contract and undertaking a combination of work and training.

Parent/Guardian

For individuals who are under 18 years of age, the parent/guardian is required to consent to the signing of the training contract and be made aware of the responsibilities under the contract.

Department of Employment and Workplace Relations (Federal)

The Department of Employment and Workplace Relations enables access to quality skills, training and employment to support Australians find secure work in fair, productive and safe workplaces - supporting individuals, businesses and our nation to prosper.